LACK OF SHIPS HALTS TOURISTS

Passports at a Premium

All Available Accommodations Are Booked Three Months in Advance.

"Ships, Ships and More Ships" is Plea From United States Ports—Travel Only Half What It Was in 1914.

New York.—The slogan of "ships! ships! and still more ships!" so effectively used during the war to speed up America's ship-building program as a defiance of the submarine campaign still is heard in American sea ports.

It comes, however, not so much from those having freight for transit as it does from those who desire to make trips to foreign shores on business or pleasure.

Steamship accommodations for all lands, despite more than a doubling of pre-war time tariffs, and rigid restrictions as to passports are at a premium.

All Accommodations Booked.

Representatives in New York and other terminals of passenger-carrying lines say that all available accommodations are booked as far as three months ahead. The unfortunate business man faced with the need of making an unexpected trip abroad, is forced to depend on possible cancellations of previously engaged passage on the part of someone who at the last moment is prevented from sailing.

In many ships third class accommodations hold men and women who are financially able to travel in the best that the ship affords. It is no infrequent occurrence for a staid banker, or a wealthy head of a large business house to be found booked with the humble alien laborer returning to the land of his birth for a visit.

It was recently said by the head of a large line in speaking of tariffs that in 1914 a man could purchase a tour 1st ticket including rail fares and hotel accommodations for a trip half way around the world for the same sum that he is now compelled to pay for a one-way ticket from New York to a Mediterranean port.

Records of departures and arrivals as kept here by the Steamship Men's association show that despite the very apparent rush, travel is only about half, as to number of passengers, what it was in 1914. In May and June of that year there sailed from American to transatlantic ports 164,300 persons of whom more than 100,000 were classed as third class. In the same months of 1920 the outgoing total was 80,823 of whom 30,000 were third class.

Arrivals Show Slump.

Of incoming passengers in one month of 1914 there were 105,100 persons. The corresponding month this year showed 45,120 arrivals.

The rush this year and the difficulty in getting accommodations is accounted for by the fact that there is need of "ships, ships and more ships" of the passenger-carrying class. Available tonnage, due to the ravages of the war, is greatly depleted. The North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American lines which prior to the war carried a large percentage of the transatlantic travel, do not exist.

In addition, many of the big liners of allied flags are gone, as for example, the Lusitania. Almost all the ships of the pre-war fleet of another large British line were submarine victims. Other ships were of a necessity laid up for periods of more than a year for reconconditioning due to their accommodations having been ripped out with axes to make them into troop carriers. An example of this is the huge Olympic, which but recently was returned to her passenger-carrying trade.

OVERLAND WILLYS-KNIGHT New Prices

"We could not possibly have taken this action unless we felt thoroughly justified in anticipating reduced cost of materials against which conditions our companies have made provision," said Mr. J. N. Willys.

"It has been commented that the automobile business has been profiteering. The profit in proportion to the increase in prices has been much less in this industry than prior to the war.

"After two months of personal investigation of conditions abroad I am firmly of the opinion that this country cannot hope to develop a healthy business and be able to compete with foreign markets unless we reestablish merchandise, selling prices more nearly on a par with conditions existing prior to the war."

HELP BUSINESS MAN

Uncle Sam to Supply Missing Link Between Science and Industry.

Department of Agriculture—Installs Staff of Engineers to Figure Out Application Cost.

Washington.—Uncle Sam is going to help the American business man to use new discoveries.

He is going to do this by supplying the previously missing link between the scientific investigator who considers processes, and the business man who must measure costs and related problems. This missing link is a force of industrial engineers.

Secretary E. T. Meredith of the department of agriculture, on the suggestion of Dr. Carl L. Alsherg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, has created a new service—office of development work—with a staff of engineers.

It is under the direction of David J. Price, who was chief engineer in the dust explosion investigations conducted by the department.

The idea is to translate through this new service the discoveries and inventions by the scientific investigators into terms that can be understood and applied in the industry on a commercial basis by the manufacturer and inventor.

Such discoveries are being made every year concerning the utilization of manufacturing waste; a new food substance is found, or a new dye formula, a glue or a preservative.

In the commercial and industrial development of these many valuable processes and inventions they frequently have not been given a fair trial because they were not at once practical.

The application in the arts and industries of such discoveries requires the calculation of source and quantity of supply and cost of production, transportation and manufacture—which is really an industrial engineering problem.

So the plan of the officials of the department of agriculture is to allow the scientist and researcher to proceed to the point where he is able to announce that a certain process is effective.

Then the new service steps in and carries on development work to prove whether the new process is commercially and industrially practical.

If it is found practical the engineers furnish cost and other data to the manufacturer and inventor.

CREW IS STRANDED ON ISLE

Castaways From Liner Carawa Pass Four Weeks on Galapagos After Vessel Sinks.

Sydney, Australia.—Four weeks' experience on the Galapagos Islands was sufficient for the crew of the Australian government liner Carawa, who, like the original Robinson Crusoe, were castaways on that island group last April.

The Carawa last March left Port Arthur, Tex., for Australia with benzine and coal oil. When in the Pacific it encountered a launch containing six men, which had been blown out to sea. The liner towed the launch to Chatham Islands in the Galapagos group.

On Chatham island the Carawa struck a reef. Her stern post and rudder were torn away and she began to leak badly. The crew made for shore and watched their boat sink.

The men lived in a tent made from canvas from the ship and subsisted on canned meat and potatoes. The food supply was limited and sleep was out of the question on account of the mosquitoes. In addition, convicts on the island stole the castaways' belongings.

After four weeks a schooner carrying cattle and hogs picked the men up and landed them at Guayaquil. Here they shipped on a steamer for Colon, where the Australian government liner Australange, bound to Sydney, picked them up early in July.

North Dakotan Invents Grasshopper Harvester

Plumber, N. D.—Ed Larkin has invented a grasshopper trap that gave excellent satisfaction this year. The trap consists of a galvanized tank 18 feet long with a perpendicular screen several feet high at the back. It is mounted on two small wheels, pulled by two horses and the tank is filled with kerosene and soap. Mr Larkin caught 100 bushels of grasshoppers.

Large Catfish

Columbus, O.—A king of catfish weighing 80 pounds and measuring four and a half feet was in the state hatcheries at London the other day, after state game protectors fought a battle landing it at Portsmouth in the muddy waters of the Scioto river where it clogged into the Ohio river.

The fish will be exhibited at the state fair.

GOMPERS TAKES HIS FIRST AIR TRIP

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, recently took his first airplane trip. Gompers had an important address to deliver here, but missed his train at Buffalo. So the labor leader chartered an airplane and arrived here in time for the speech. The picture shows Gompers in the plane in full togs of the aviator.

PUBLIC FUNDS AND THE STATE BANK

By J. E. Phelan

At the general election occurring Nov. 2, this year there is no question that is of interest to all citizens and taxpayers, including bankers and those who wish the financial credit maintained for counties, townships and school districts.

North Dakota for over 30 years of statehood and prior to that time has been served by a competitive banking business and no business evolution—a slow growth, the result of co-operative spirit among men, where confidence, integrity and good character counted even greater than material wealth.

No business has been more strongly competitive than the banking business and no business has ever served the public more faithfully and constructively.

The Bank of North Dakota was organized and naturally came in as a competitor of existing banks, intensifying the competition, but by law, the Bank of North Dakota was given a monopoly of public funds, thus fostering special interests as well as monopoly.

Neither the state nor the national banking systems under the law can compete in any way for the public funds.

During a period of adversity the public funds have been of vital importance to country banks, but as a rule such deposits only functioned as customers' balances in the credit scales.

The public indebtedness of local political divisions, in form of warrants, taxed the resources of the country banks much beyond the proportional public deposits.

At this coming November election a law is to be voted on initiating and amending the mandatory law giving the Bank of North Dakota a monopoly of county, school district and township funds, and instead of that, making it optional with the counties, school districts and townships to deposit such funds in local banks or with the Bank of North Dakota as their interests may appear.

This involves a matter of self-determination or competitive business as against a monopoly.

By adoption of this amendment local banks will pay interest on public funds as formerly if such funds are worth, to the local banks, 4 per cent or more why not pay that amount to the counties, school districts and townships directly, instead of to the Bank of North Dakota?

I have no grievance against the Bank of North Dakota. I have had a kindly feeling toward Mr. Cathro as well as Mr. Wallace, but I must confess that my sense of integrity suffered a great shock when the Scandinavian American Bank was advised to shoot doubtful or worthless paper to other comrade banks. It was a blot on the initiation of the guarantee of deposits system, as well as the character of the men participating.

I believe Mr. Cathro has had an honest desire to hold the banking system of North Dakota in alliance to the Bank of North Dakota. He has planned gradually to wean the banks of the state from their heretofore of public deposits, logically belonging to the districts producing them. He has tried to be a good stepfather to them and in time to convince them that it was a privilege to beg for deposits of public funds and pay 4 per cent for them when by right the banks of the state should have the custody by competition at the same or a less rate.

Brother Cathro has aimed at an alliance that has savored too much of miscegenation. An inborn code of honor among the local financiers repelled the valorous advances.

Now because a large majority of bankers in North Dakota desire to submit the matter to a referendum of the people and find out how the producers of this wealth may desire to have it handled. Brother Cathro protests that the bankers and the assoc.

clation are participating in politics. Why should they not participate in politics? Is it a crime to appeal to lawful methods in ascertaining the desires of citizens and taxpayers as to the use and expenditure of public funds?

A threat is conveyed by Mr. Cathro that the Bank of North Dakota may solicit general deposits from the people to supplement their monopoly of public funds.

Why not? The people are certainly due for a greater scare in that direction than the banks.

The funds of the public are now commandeered without reciprocal accommodation in caring for public indebtedness.

Can the depositing public be lured to trusting their funds to political control without security or compensating advantage?

It is alleged that the Bank of North Dakota during the period of congestion, when the bankers and their customers in this state have been woefully beset by need of funds to carry on their business that several millions of dollars have been sent out of the state to the larger banks in the east.

It is alleged that Mr. Cathro admitted four millions of dollars of such funds having been placed in the First National Bank of Minneapolis and other amounts in other banks.

If as alleged such large amounts of money were removed from local North Dakota banks so that the banks could not lend the funds to their customers and that the Bank of North Dakota in their "desolation of inexperience" would not do it, then by the grace of God it was a good thing to send it to Minneapolis. St. Paul and Chicago for the splendid gentlemen in charge of the Twin City and other banks certainly released it to the banks of North Dakota or Montana or wherever it was mostly needed for sustaining industry, agriculture and other productive fields.

So why worry, why abuse Cathro or any one else? But let us vote our convictions and lawfully adjust the differences and keep eternally at it until they are adjusted.

CUPID UNITES RUSSIAN COUNTESS AND RICHEST N. Y. BACHELOR

COUNTESS GANNA WALSKA

Paris, Sept. 28.—The Countess Ganna Walska, Russian actress, was secretly wed to Alexander Smith Cochran, New York's wealthiest bachelor. She was a former favorite of Peter and her husband, Baron Arcadio d'Elzevir, a captain in the Russian army, was killed during the war. She has played on the American stage.

Cochran is a sportsman with an international reputation. His yacht, The Vento, defended the cup for America in 1911 from Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, while another of his yachts, the Westward, defeated the Duke of Devon for the jubilee prize in Kiel in 1910. He is 45 years old and is said to be worth $50,000,000.

With the Movies

Beauty is Keynote of Producer in Latest Photoplay, "Why Change Your Wife?"

Standing shoulders high above the mass of motion picture directors are the few men who represent the masters of the profession. Among them, Cecil B. DeMille ranks with the highest.

A pioneer in the photoplay industry, Mr. DeMille brought to his task of picture producing the ideals of a true artist.

Perhaps the secret of Mr. DeMille's success is the fact that he is a rare combination of imaginative artist and realist. He is a dreamer who set about making his dreams come true in a perfectly natural manner. It is in "Male and Female," a tropical island were necessary as a background, Mr. DeMille set to work constructing one when completed, it could not be told from the genuine article. Beauty is the keynote of every DeMille production. To secure this, no expense of time, money, or effort is spared.

In this latest picture, "Why Change Your Wife?", scheduled for the Eltinge Theatre next week, Mr. DeMille has taken for his theme a strikingly dramatic phase of young married life. Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson are the leading players, though the cast is practically all-star and includes such favorites as Baby Duvick and Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer. William DeMille wrote the story, and it was scenarized by Olga Printzlau and Sada Cowan. It is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

ORPHEUM

"The Day She Paid" is a Universal production, was given its first local showing at the Orpheum Theatre last night, and kept a large audience thoroughly interested and thrilled. The human qualities of this feature are its chief charm, for the characters are those of every-day life and the situations which confront the principal figures are the same which many men and women in our large cities are compelled to face.

The fact that "The Day She Paid" is based on a story by Fannie Hurst in the Cosmopolitan Magazine called "Oats for the Woman," is one reason for the quality of the story, for there are few contemporary writers who know the life of the so-called middle class with such intimate accuracy. A cast typical of the Universal, including Francisca Billington, Charles Barry, Harry Van Meter, Lillian Rich, Marcel Dragneau and Little Nancy Maxwell and the capable directing by Rex Ingram, are features of the pleasing production.

"The Day She Paid" is one of the best offerings for this week at local theatres and a large crowd is expected at the Orpheum tonight.

THE WOODS

UNKNOWN.

We deck the grave of him who came back again to sleep;
But what of him unknown to fame for whom the lonely weep?
Yea, what of him in unknown grave unmarked by stone or tomb;
Shall over him no standard wave, no springtime roses bloom?

Weep not, dear heart, for him who dies beneath the Georgia pine;
He sleeps beneath more tender skies than are these skies of thine,
And blossoms tremble o'er his head as gentle and as fair—
The flowers above the unknown dead his God has planted there.

And when the breeze, the Southern breeze, the pine above him swings
Of his beloved Northern trees a melody it sings—
Yea, like the roar of waves that sweep upon an unseen shore,
He hears the sighing, in his sleep of cedars by his door.

"I'm in Heaven" is the story of a little lad who is chided by his teacher for failing to get his lessons. He is told he will never go to Heaven. He replies that he is there when he is in his mother's arms. "Down the Trail to Home, Sweet Home" is a lovely song in waltz time.

Two songs from the Ziegfeld Follies of 1920. Tell Me, Little Gypsy" is a melodious invocation to a Romany girl to tell the singer's fortune, and "Girls of My Dreams" is a confession that instead of one girl, the narrator loves them all.

Don't let your sweaters shrink or stretch

YOU can wash your sweaters yourself so that they look like new! The expensive sweater with angora collar and cuffs! The dear little sleeveless slipper that you knit yourself! Keep them fluffy and new-looking. Wash them in soft Lux suds.

Rubbing soap on woollens and twisting them make them thicken and shrink. Your good-looking sweater suddenly grows far too large and stringy—or ridiculously tight and harsh! But there is no rubbing with Lux. Soase the rich foamy lather gently through and through. Your sweater comes out soft and shapely—the way you bought it.

Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux.—Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass.

There's nothing like Lux for keeping sweaters new

To wash your sweater Use two tablespoonfuls of Lux to a gallon of water. Whisk to a lather in hot water. Add cold water till lukewarm. Swish sweater about. Press nude through—do not rub. Rinse in three lukewarm waters. Squeeze water out, do not wring. Spread on a towel to dry in shade.

KEEP THE GAME CLEAN

Lovers of baseball are keenly interested in the efforts of the grand jury in session at Chicago to purge the sport of crooked manipulation. The nation is shocked over the revelations made at the inquiry. Americans prided themselves upon the manner in which the national game was conducted. Baseball was universally considered as one of the cleanest games played.

The charges of bribery and "fixing" of the last world series injure the status of professional ball. Only a thorough housecleaning and the ousting from organized baseball of anyone concerned in the vicious graft will purge the game and restore it to public confidence.

Comiskey has suspended every player who plotted with gamblers to "throw" the series. Unless they can prove their innocence, he will drive everyone of them out of organized baseball. The future of the game rests solely with the managers who must place their teams above suspicion.

SHOWS UP FRAZIER

J. F. T. O'Connor, fusion candidate for governor, punctured the administration's arguments in a recent address at Crosby in Divide county. He revealed the inconsistency of Governor Frazier and drove home with telling logic the necessity of supporting the fusion ticket if representative government is to be restored in this state.

The following from his Crosby address is a matter of legislative record:

"For years the farmers wanted a terminal elevator, but Governor Frazier vetoed the terminal elevator bill in 1917. He gave as an excuse that the bill called for $300,000 appropriation and would be paid by direct taxation. There was $100,000 in the terminal fund at the time." The orgy of spending, this year calling for $3,893,185.00 to run the state, had not yet started. "In 1919 the governor signed a bill appropriating $200,000 for immigration by direct taxation. Was immigration more important than a terminal?"

"Townley ran for Legislature in Golden Valley on the Socialist ticket. The Socialist platform advocated state ownership of land. Walter Thomas Mills believes the same. Do the farmers want the state to own their land. One more increase in taxes like the last one and the state will own the land."

THE CRIMINAL

An incident which has just occurred in one of the criminal courts in New York City, is exciting considerable comment.

Edwin D. Wheelock, a Wall Street Broker, having been summoned to jury duty, was impaneled and sworn on a jury to try two boys charged with crime.

As soon as Wheelock learned the nature of the case he asked to be excused. The judge asked, "Why do you wish to be excused from this case?" "Because, your honor," he replied, "the chief criminal is not before the bar."

"What do you mean by 'chief criminal'?" Who is the chief criminal?" asked the judge. Wheelock replied, "Society at large is the chief criminal, your honor; society perpetuates conditions which breed criminals, tempts men to crime and rewards them if they are sufficiently skillful in crime."

"I never heard of such a thing," replied the judge. "Do you mean to say that if one of your clerks stole a lot of your bonds you would excuse him and charge it to society?"

"I would not hold him guiltless," replied the juror, "but I should know that but for our vicious social system the clerk would have no temptation to steal. If society were being tried I would gladly sit as a juror, but under the circumstances I do not wish to be a party to convicting these boys of a crime."

The judge excused Wheelock from the jury and from the panel.

This would seem to have closed the incident. But Wheelock's part has just begun. He has been receiving numerous letters from business men, reformers, authors, physicians, state prisoners, unfortunate women, and others, all commending his stand and expressing surprise that a judge of experience should "never" have heard of such a thing.

"Was his stand correct? What would happen if all men took such a stand? How would individual crime be punished?" On the other hand, has he not pointed to a condition well worth attention? Is not society in large part, at least, responsible for the kind of men and women who make up its entity? Has a boy or girl reared in slums as good a chance to be honest, high-minded, clean and reputable as one reared under ideal surroundings? Wheelock has performed a useful service, at least, in raising the question.

RAILS TANGLED

Iowa is the eighth state to refuse intra-state railroad rate increases.

The position Iowa takes is that while the Interstate Commerce Commission may regulate rates of freight and passenger traffic between states, it has nothing to say about what rates shall be charged within the state. Seven other states already have assumed that attitude.

All of which places the railway situation in a tangle, which federal courts must smooth out. Should the courts uphold the states, railroads will not come near the large increase they expected, and which, it seems, they need to enable the country's transportation system to keep step with the nation's production.

NICKEL NURSERS

During the past two years you often met the man who frowned upon thrifty habits, who scorned the rainy-day-saver, and called the careful buyer a "nickel-nurser."

The nickel-nurser was any individual who saved a part of his wage increase, and who put it in a savings account, rather than into silk shirts. He wasn't what you might call a "tight-wad," far from a miser, but he did save nickles, and dimes, and dollars. They, plus interest, now speak for themselves. For this is the day when nickel-nursers are doing the smiling. Their dollars rapidly are growing in buying power; each drop in prices makes their dollars bigger.

He who laughed at nickel-nursers is just about through laughing. The nickel-nurser my soon wear the smile.

Henry Ford is demonstrating that the car can go down hill as well as up.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinions of The Tribune. They are inserted here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

SOME ADVICE TO THE SICK

Mr. Lemke is proclaiming editorially that the paper the farmers gave him is sick—very sick. The first impulse is to hope that it is nothing trivial.

But on second thoughts, we feel more inclined to suggest to you, Mr. Lemke, that if the paper really has become a liability to you, as you say it has, you might give it back to the farmers as the league leaders did with the Consumers' Stores after they had licked the cream from the dish. Perhaps if you turned it over to the farmers who put up the money to buy it in the first place, Fargo people might be induced to read it and patronize it. At least it would take the burden off your shoulders.—Fargo Forum.

PATRIOTIC SENATOR MEYERS

Senator Henry L. Meyers has given patriotic advice to the Democrats of Montana to vote for the Republican candidate for state office and for two places in Congress. Possibly he may have injured the chances of his party's nominee for President, though that is problematical. His action has divorced state from national issues in Montana, as they ought to be everywhere. Governor Cox will have a better standing with the sober and sensible people of Montana, if Senator Meyers' declaration serves to separate the question of the presidency from state offices, and to prevent Cox, even against his will, from being linked with the Townleyite political bucaners.

There is no argument, except that of machine politics, for electing state officers on the basis of their national party affiliations.

A change of 4,000 votes in the June primary election in Minnesota would present the same question in Minnesota Republicans that Montana Democrats confront. The state issue in Minnesota is between the Republican nominee for Governor and the candidate for the Nonpartisan league. If Townley's man had been nominated by the Republicans, the choice would have been between him and the Democratic candidate.

Though this is a presidential year, local party politics are in a condition of confusion and break-up in many states. In the recent Illinois primary the overshadowing question was between two factions of Republicans that are so far apart as the poles on questions of state policy. In New York the chances are said to favor the re-election of a Democratic governor and a Republican sweep on the presidency.

The independent voters are bringing about this more rational lineup in state politics.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

EVENTS AND GOSSIP FOR THE FANS

MILLERS WILL BUILD MACHINE FOR NEXT YEAR

President Says $25,000 Will Be Spent in Effort to Beat St. Paul

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30.—The Minneapolis baseball team drew 225,000 fans into Nicollet park during the season now closing. This doubles the attendance of last year. It was announced by President George K. Belden of the Millers.

"I believe, also, that this is the largest attendance in the history of baseball in Minneapolis," Mr. Belden said. "It is the largest during the term of office of Mr. Hickey as president of the league."

"Mr. Hickey informs me that this is the largest turnout Minneapolis has had in the 10 years during which he has been at the head of affairs. We missed a Saturday and a Sunday date with St. Paul when we were rained out. This cut out at least 20,000."

"I want to thank the fans for the way they have supported the team. Thousands of the oldtimers stretched their legs at Nicollet again, and thousands of new fans were enrolled."

"We are going to reward them all by building up a team which we hope will overtake St. Paul next year. Including players already bought and in sight for next year, we have laid out $25,000 for new material."

"Other A. A. clubs are trying to increase their strength, but I think we have laid better lines to sources of supply than they, both in the majors and in leagues below our classification."

"These results will begin to show when the winter trading and realignment begins."

The millers are playing their last game at Toledo today.

"UNCLE WILBERT" AGAIN BRINGS HOME BACON IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Classy Pitching Puts Brooklyn Team at Top Rung of Parent Baseball League and Wins World Series Play

BY DEAN SNYDER

It isn't likely they'll ever call Wilbert Robinson a miracle man. For who ever heard of a fat miracle? But those two adjectives fit the jolly old leader of the Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers like frosting fits cake.

Uncle Robbie has come about as near turning "water into wine" as the next one. With a ball club made up mainly of castoffs from other big league teams he has put on the main sketch in John Heydler's vaudeville circuit this summer.

And the particular brand of humor which he uses is no newer than the principles of the humble Nazarene.

Pats 'Em on Back.

His working principle is that kind words and encouragement will shell out results from players where the whip will only drive them back to the minors or out of baseball entirely.

He pats his athletes on the back so much that most of them wear shoulder pads.

Good nature hangs on his face so thick that he's got smile-lines around his eyes and a double chin above his collar.

Every day all season long he has poured out his untiring kindness. Infectious stuff, it is too. The outfit is not a machine but a family with Uncle Robbie sitting at the head of the table. The percentages show he has done a neat job of curving the pennant turkey.

Holds Pep Sessions.

Before each game he disappears into the clubhouse, followed by his boys. The same subject pops up at every secret conclave. He tells them that they can outfight the battling Giants and outplay the cocky Reds, and that they've got the stuff in their bats to make any pitcher living curl up and retreat to the showers. He rattles off a little baseball strategy here and there about how they can clog up the scoreboard with runs. They take every word he tells them for gospel truth. As a result the Dodgers go out on the field and outdo themselves in their desire to win.

They don't always come out in front, but a mistake doesn't rile Uncle Robbie any more than to the extent of a fatherly pat on the back and the cheering words of "Better luck tomorrow."

There are 27 players on the Brooklyn roster. Only nine of them can play at a time. The other 18 sit in the dugout and play the role of bench managers. They yell for Robbie to yank a pitcher or a player. They give him all kinds of advice.

Wise Old Fellow.

But Robbie is a wise old fellow. Back of his smile is a rich lore of baseball experience, both as a player and manager. His decisions are right so often that the boys look upon him as being almost uncanny in juggling his pitchers and players in the pinches.

That's Uncle Robbie and his baseball creed.

If good nature was gold he'd own a summer home on Long Island, and have a bank account bigger than Ponzi's bubble.

The great democratic jockey of the Dodgers has put a smile into baseball and cashed in on it.

The players all love him. Flatbush fans adore him.

And is it any wonder, for Uncle Robbie is just one of the boys?

INDIANS PULL AHEAD OF SOX

New York, Sept. 30.—Cleveland by defeating St. Louis yesterday won another "hat-trick" in the American League pennant. The White Sox were left with a record now trail the Indians by one and one-half games. Although New York took third in the National League, it was the Indians who pulled ahead of the Sox.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Divide Double

Boston, Sept. 30.—Boston and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader, the home team winning the first game, 1 to 0, and the visitors taking the second, 5 to 1. It was the fastest doubleheader of the season; the first game being played in one hour and five minutes.

SUCKERS TAKE TROUT'S PLACE

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 30.—Owing to the scarcity of Lake Superior white fish and trout, suckers are now being shipped to the Chicago market where there is a ready demand for them. One Huron Bay fisherman has just shipped 750 pounds of the usually despised fish. Suckers from Lake Superior are said to be especially good and palatable inasmuch as they are taken from some of the coldest water in the world and are firm and hard.

Deep Laid Plot

"Mother and the girl insist on my wearing my oldest clothes every day and Sunday," said Mr. Cumrox.

"That's economy."

"I think it's diplomacy. If they can keep me looking shabby they know I won't have the nerve to show up at any of their parties."—Washington Star.

The Eleven Stains--- and How We Treat Them for You

Men who have studied the stubborn, special treatments have just tell us there are eleven main varieties of stains that affect fabrics—fruit stains, beverage stains, inks, grass, grease, wax (including gum), dyes, paints, oils, leather, and those of metallic origin, like rust.

Through systematic study, and long experience, we have learned what is most efficacious for each kind of stain.

Simple washing suffices for the great majority, but those more stubborn, special treatments have been devised that clean without harm to the fabric.

This is a supplemental help that we render—one of the details typical of the thoroughness of our modern laundering service.

And it is service, too, that we will be glad to give you. Learn the joy of complete relief from washday's trying labor—have our driver call for all your family washing.
